Thank You.

The response to our request to pay up back subscriptions has indeed been most gratifying, and we now have the cleanest subscription list in the history of this paper. We wish to thank not only those who have responded to our statements but those who have renewed without waiting to become in arrears as well. If you have not yet renewed your subscription for another year or belong to that few who have not yet paid up your back subscription account we would appreciate your attention to the same. We are doing our best to tide over these hard times and high paper prices without raising the price of subscription and you can help us materially by attending promptly to this matter.

Thanking you again, I am,

Yours to serve,

Third Mexican Arrested.

The third of the four Mexicans charged with having assaulted Robert Hattox of Devine was arrested yesterday at Devine by Deputy Sheriff Crawford. Hattox was assaulted and severely wounded by four Mexicans at Klondike, a small settlement near Devine, about a week ago. A posse gave chase and in a running pistol fight killed one of the Mexicans. The other three escaped at the time, but two later were arrested and placed in the Bexar county jail.

The third Mexican arrested yesterday morning will be brought here today. The condition of Hattox, who is suffering from a stab wound, is reported to be critical. He is in a hospital at Devine.—S. A. Express, Oct. 19.

Matinee Study Club.

The Matinee Study Club met at the school house Friday afternoon of last week. Miss Genevieve Warren heard the lesson which was from Pippa Passes.

The club will meet every Friday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock at the school building. The object of the club is to study literature, and any one interested in such study is invited to attend.

THE YOUNG MEN'S BIBLE CLASS.

August Nester.

August Nester, aged 60 years, died early yesterday morning at his residence, 415 Lewis street. He was born in D'Hanis, Texas, and came to San Antonio forty-seven years ago. For many years Mr. Nester was active in the fraternal life of the city and was a member of the Knights and Ladies of Honor, Loyal Americans and Harmonic Lodge, Herman's Sons. He is survived by his wife and one son, Herman A. Nester of San Antonio. The funeral will be held at 4:30 this afternoon from the residence, with services conducted by Rev. Thomas Gallagher of Utica Presbyterian church. Burial will be in Herman Sons' cemetery.—San Antonio Express, Oct. 19th.

Philathea Class Meets.

The Philathea Class met with Miss Delta Peters Tuesday afternoon with ten members and one visitor present.

After the usual devotional exercises and business meeting, an interesting lesson was conducted by Mrs. J. R. Chancey from the first chapter of our new study, the "Bible by Periods". The class will again take the first and second chapters of the same study for the next lesson as the attendance was small on account of bad weather at this time.

The hostess assisted by Mrs. O. W. Peters served delicious cake and ice cream at the close of the lesson.

The next meeting of the class will be Nov. 21, at 3 p. m.

Business Change.

A deal was made in Hondo this week whereby Walter McClaugherty secured the interest of John Horger in the Hondo Livery and Feed Stable, the firm now being composed of McClaugherty & McClaugherty. Walter has been closely associated with the business for many years and the experience thus gained will stand him in good stead now that he has become financially interested.

Mr. Horger is now with the Hondo Auto Sales Co.

T. B. C. Club.

The girls of the T. B. C. Club spent a very busy (?) afternoon with Miss Lizzie Schuehle on Thursday, October 19th, 1916.

While some of the girls were busy making things for their "hope boxes," others were making Christmas presents, for Old Santa is not many moons away. However, it seems that Old Dan Cupid won over Santa as most of the girls were sewing for their "hope chests." Well, we hope after giving so much time and energy to Cupid he won't forsake us, and the motto of the club, "Where There's Life There's Hope" still holds good, even though we solemnly vowed never to desert the club.

The fact that the club gets a little smaller each time does not keep the old "faithful" ones that always attend from enjoying the meetings as much as ever.

After the girls chatted—and worked for about two hours, the hostess revived their "failing energy" with delicious refreshments of sandwiches and punch.

Those present were: Misses Bessie Mae Chancey, Lola Buchanan, Abbie Bradley, Mary Kempf, Mesdames P. L. Cram, R. A. Carter, and the hostess, Miss Lizzie Schuehle.

CONTRIBUTED.

Commissioners' Court.

The county commissioners' court, in session a couple of days last week, besides attending to routine matters, disposed of the following new business:

Petition of Hy. Frerichs and others for road was heard. Proposed road viewed by the court and granted.

Place of holding election in Precinct No. 3, Dunlay, changed from school house to Herman Sons' Hall.

Claim of Lloyd Tilley against county for $85.50 was rejected.

The Stiegler crossing on the Hondo was viewed by the court and order passed for construction of concrete crossing over Hondo river at said point, in lieu of low water bridge at Vandenburg crossing.

Order passed for concrete crossings over Briar Branch and Liveoak Sloughs.

The Rain.

Two splendid rains fell in Hondo the early part of the week—one early Monday morning, the other Tuesday evening. These rains came at a very opportune time as the farmers were getting rather anxious as the time for sowing fall oats is here and the ground was needing moisture. Oats planting will now be the order of the day, and indications are that a considerable acreage will be planted to this crop.

The moisture will also prove of great benefit to pastures, will green up the grass, start the winter weeds and replenish the water supply.

The total precipitation for the week amounted to 2.13 inches.

Dear People!

We have opened a blacksmith and general repair shop in Schroeter's old shop on the Yancey road, and earnestly request a share of your patronage. We would like for you to give us a trial, anyway, and if we can't please you we won't charge you a cent.

We are especially prepared to do automobile repairing and painting, also wagon and buggy repair work. We claim, and want to prove to your satisfaction, that we can shoe horses as good as anybody and better than some.

All we ask is a trial.

(By H. L. KEMPSTER, Missouri College of Agriculture.)

As the chicks grow they need more room. It does not pay to let them crowd.

Beware of musty, moldy, sour or decayed food. It is sure to cause trouble.

Tough grass is of no value as a green food. Better sow some quick-growing crop.

Feed hoppers greatly reduce the work. If they are kept filled, the chicks will never go hungry.

If your chicks are not doing well something is wrong. Look out for lice and for worms in the intestines.

Two-year-old hens had better be sent to the market. They seldom pay for their feed if kept over a third season.

Grit and oyster shell should be included in the ration for both young and old. To neglect this would be poor economy.

Young stock will do better if not compelled to pick their living with the old. There will also be less trouble from lice.

Shade is one of the most important essentials during the hot months. Get the chicks into the orchard and cornfield.

A growing chick will not thrive on short rations. If the right kind of food is fed, there is little danger of overfeeding, especially if they are given plenty of range.

Supplement the regular feeds with a wet mash—fed crumbly. Feed all the chicks will clean up before going to roost, but none should be left in the trough, for it will sour.

Mark the pullets this fall so that you will know just how old your hens are. A leg band on the right leg one year and on the left leg the next will assist in culling the flock. A hog ring will serve the purpose.

Big Agricultural Warehouse.

New Orleans has the largest agricultural warehouse in the world. It has a capacity of 2,000,000 bales of cotton and is adapted to the storage of all other packed commodities, such as sugar and coffee. It was built at a cost of $3,500,000 by the state of Louisiana and is said to reduce the cost of handling any agricultural commodity 40 per cent. There are 23 acres of ground under roof, while the entire plant occupies 150 acres.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

MR. PLAIN SPARROW'S CALL.

"It was such a hot day yesterday," said Daddy, "that Mr. Plain Sparrow simply could not get cool. You see he never goes away in the winter and so he gets used to really cold weather. On a day as hot as it was yesterday he simply doesn't know what to do with himself."

"Daddy," said Nancy, "won't you tell us why his name was Mr. Plain Sparrow? Are they different from the usual Sparrows, or the chipping Sparrows?"

"Or any relation to the Song Sparrows?" asked Nick.

"Well, I never," laughed Daddy. "To think that I should puzzle you. He called himself Mr. Plain Sparrow because that was exactly what he was. He was just a plain, ordinary Sparrow, and he thought it such a wise thing to call himself that—and not put on any silly frills. He prided himself on being sensible."

"If there's anything in this world I hate," he said. "It's pretending to be what a creature is not." And so he called himself by the name of Mr. Plain Sparrow, and his wife was Mrs. Plain Sparrow, and his children were the Plain Sparrow Children."

"Well, after all, Daddy," said Nancy. "He was a sensible old fellow, even if I didn't know what his name meant!"

"But I must tell you about his adventures yesterday when he was so hot," continued Daddy. "His wife had been taking a nap all day and she had said she didn't want to wake up for anything unless Mrs. Brown Sparrow came to call. Then she would get up and have a good gossip talk with her. For as you know the Sparrows love to gossip."

"And sure enough Mrs. Brown Sparrow had come to call and so Mr. Plain Sparrow was left alone to do whatever he chose. The children had all gone to a Party, and he was lonely as well as hot."

"I think," he said, "that I will take a walk or a fly, to the Duck Pond in the park nearby. Yes, it seems to me that's an excellent scheme. I would like to see those Ducks, for they're right smart creatures, and I like to hear their funny quack-quack talk."

"Now Mr. Plain Sparrow wasn't a great musician for none of his family had any too lovely voices, and he wasn't at all particular about pleasant voices either, for that matter. No amount of shrieking, and chatting and talking could bother him. So after he had made up his mind what to do, off he started.

"Would You Like to Join Us?"

He flew along until he reached the Pond. It was quite shady and nice and cool, and he was extremely glad he had chosen such a beautiful way of spending the afternoon.

"What are you up to, Ducks?" he called, as he flew over the Pond, and then perched on a small bush that was on one side.

"Mr. Plain Sparrow was willing to make friends with anyone at all. He was not snobbish or fussy as to just who were his friends—no, there was certainly no nonsense about him.

"We're well," said the Ducks. "We're enjoying a cooling drink between swims. Would you like to join us? It's just tea time."

"Tea time, eh?" said Mr. Plain Sparrow. "And would you give a fellow a good, fat worm in place of bread and butter and cake?"

"Quack-quack, ha, ha," laughed the Ducks. "We don't like bread and butter and cake. But we can't get the worm for you just now, as we're not very good at digging on such a hot day."

"Well, then, how about my digging for a couple of them, and then joining you nice Ducks when you're ready to have your tea?"

"Splendid idea," quacked the Ducks. And off went Mr. Plain Sparrow to a soft place in the earth where he thought there would be some good worms.

"Pretty soon he came back with some fine ones, and he sat on his porch and ate them, while the Ducks nibbled at their food, and had drinks of pond water, which they called tea. Mr. Plain Sparrow flew down and took sips of water by the side of the pond and in one very shallow place he had some nice shower baths while the Ducks were having swims. And before he left he told the Ducks what a good time he had had, and how nice and cool he felt."

"Well, you're so friendly we're glad you came," quacked the Ducks once again."

Passing of Virginia City Recalls Its Old Glories

Despairing of a revival of Virginia City, Nev., the Enterprise, a newspaper on which Mark Twain once worked, has given up the ghost. In dying it recalls attention to a city once as familiar on men's tongues as Verdun is today, but for reasons quite other. The city of fabulous riches, the city where millions came and went in an hour, the city whose earth yielded the coveted metal as in geyser floods, the city that had a life and a luxury which today amid its sagebrush seem mythical, is now a collection of shacks, no longer able to support a newspaper. Only yesterday, it seems, Virginia City was the most populous in Nevada, though Carson City, as we all learned in our geographies, was the capital. Few things in American history are more romantic than the rise and fall of Virginia City. The state of Nevada survives—a sovereign state is indestructible. In area it equals all of New York and New England combined; Staten Island is more populous. Nevada has had its Reno and its Goldfields, for one thing or another famed, as it has the husk of the once dazzling mining camp, now bereft of its newspaper. But Nevada, with all its vast extent, has not yet learned to graft cactus with cabbages, and until it does its Bedouin cities will fold their tents like the Arabs.—New York Globe.

Mr. PLAIN SPARROW'S CALL.

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. No alcohol in Scott's.

Scott & Bowe, Bloomfield, N.J.

Notice.

ARTICLE NO. 694, PENAL CODE OF TEXAS.

"If any person shall suffer any substance, injurious to the health of those who reside in the vicinity, to remain on premises in his possession, he shall be punished by fine not less than $10.00 nor more than $100.00, and each day he permits such substance to remain on the said premises shall constitute a separate offense."

The attention of the public is directed to the above law. A good many people in this community have surface closets in their premises. A surface closet, to be sanitary and to be within the law, must be screened and cleaned out every day. Inasmuch as this community has no scavenger this is impracticable, and the public is hereby notified that pits must be provided at least six feet in depth and kept duly disinfected by some suitable disinfectant, such as lime. Owing to the prevalence of Typhoid Fever, Malaria, Dengue, Diphtheria, Typhus and Scarlet Fever, I feel it incumbent upon me as County Health Officer of Medina County to see that the said law is strictly enforced. I request the citizenship of Medina County who have the welfare of this community at heart, to assist in placing the community in a sanitary condition.

W. H. SMITH,
County Health Officer.

is essential to health, comfort and appearance. Have you ever noticed a strained look on your face? Usually this comes from eye-strain. More wrinkles are caused by eye-strain than by old age. Headaches caused by eye-strain cannot be cured by medicine, it depends upon optical skill of the optometrist who prescribes the glasses. Letter to the Club Girls

DALLAS, TEX., Oct. 19, 1916.

Dear Club Girls:
I have a lot of news to tell you in this letter and I am sure you will be most pleased. This is such a busy time with us we haven't much time for gossip or news, but I know you always like to hear about the other clubs although you are the distance of this great state apart.

Last week I had the great pleasure of seeing many of the Grayson county club girls at the Red River Valley fair held in Sherman. A good many club girls sent fruit exhibits and several sent lovely textile exhibits, but owing to no place in which to display them they were not exhibited. There were four departments exhibiting in a space not much larger than we had last year at either Dallas, Galveston or Waco for our department, and you can imagine how crowded it was. In my department the entries were open only to Grayson county club girls and that debarred several nice exhibits I had received from Collin county and other points.

Annie Mae Hudgins, Grace and Lorene Stark from Denison; Neva Baker, Gunter; Edna Ford, Ruth Simpson of Dorchester; and little Hope Ridings from Rock Port school were among the exhibitors who won prizes. Annie Mae Hudgins won the sweepstakes prizes for the best general exhibits of canned fruits and jelly. There were several others who came close second, among them Grace Stark. Louise Maphs of Gunter won the prize on the essay, "My Trip to Austin."

I had the pleasure of visiting Howe, October 9th, and organized a junior club of 35 members. This lovely little club will be supervised by Miss Leta Davis, one of the beloved and lovable girls of the Dorchester club. Leta is attending school at Howe, which is a first class high school. The Howe girls are going to work for playground equipment, and from the splendid senior and junior clubs there I am sure they will have them all before the year is over.

I was interested in the excellence of the school fire drill I witnessed under the direction of Superintendent W. C. Johnson. At the cry of "fire" the children all over the building gathered their books and hastily but quietly fell into line and marched out. It took only thirty seconds to completely empty the building. Aside from the great saving of lives there is a wonderful saving of school books when children are taught these fire drills. I wonder how many schools in the state observed fire prevention day, Monday, October 9th.

From Howe I went to Denison to visit the lovely club composed of high school domestic science and art girls. A reception was held in the domestic science rooms, and delicious punch and cake served to about 100 club girls. I never saw a more enthusiastic, charming lot of girls. They are going to put into practice the knowledge they have been gaining by furnishing my dear little club girls everywhere some of their favorite recipes from the science girls, and the art girls are going to furnish us our stitch models. Don't you think that is lovely for these busy girls to do for us? They have some wonderful club plans for work which they will tell you about pretty soon. We are planning to hold a district convention there just as soon as we can arrange our dates, and the club girls are to be the hostesses to the visiting club girls. I hope we will be able to have a good attendance. I will be sure to let you know the dates in time.

The Dallas fair will soon be open. Should any of you girls visit the city be sure to come to see me. The booth is always open and you are always welcome. With love,

Cordially,
MRS. J. L. LANDRUM.

Yancey News.

The supper given by the Parent-Teachers Association on Friday night, Oct. 13th, was a decided success, something over $33 was made. Every body had all they could eat of chicken, turkey, goat, all kinds of salads, cake and chocolate.

The evening was spent in listening to the beautiful new Victrola, purchased by the Association. The funds raised will go toward the payment of this machine.

Rev. Moses has been called to fill the Baptist pulpit at Yancey.

How Catarrh is Contracted.

Mothers are sometimes so thoughtless as to neglect the colds which their children contract. The inflammation of the mucus membrane, at first acute, becomes chronic and the child has chronic catarrh, a disease that is seldom cured and that may prove a life's burden. Many persons who have this loathsome disease will remember having had frequent colds at the time it was contracted. A little forethought, a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judiciously used, and all this trouble might have been avoided. Obtainable everywhere.

Mrs. N. H. Hawkes of Lacoste spent Saturday and Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. A. Ahr.—Cline Cor., Uvalde Leader-News.

A man should try to have a good opinion of himself."

"I mean a certain amount of self-respect."

"Oh, that's all right, but some people don't seem able to distinguish between self-respect and self-admiration."

A Close Shave.

"Don't tell me you can't find work," said the hard-faced housekeeper.

"Well, mum," replied the tramp at the door, "it's true a man offered me a job only last week, but I could not take it."

"And why not?"

"I wuz paralyzed."

"You seem all right now."

"Yessum. Ye see, I wuz paralyzed wid fright."

A Matter of Pride.

"Motoring is enjoyable, but it isn't the best form of exercise," said the health expert.

"What do you consider the best exercise?"

"Walking."

"The chief objection some people have to walking is that they have no way of indicating to strangers as they walk along that they could ride if they wanted to."

Wondrous Ways of Cupid

No Masculine Heart Is So Stubborn That It Cannot Be Tamed Into Subjection

By LAURA JEAN LIBBEY

(Copyright, 1915.)
Who shall say where love begins,
How its subtle way it wins,
Gods, who love the race they frame,
Cannot tell whence springs the flame,
It may reason long and well,
But can never break the spell.

No man should rail at or sneer at the remark that married life is the happiest in the world, for the single man never knows at what place or time he will meet the one woman who will cause all his determination and theories to melt like fog before the sunshine. Even the men who are the most strenuously opposed to matrimony have their secret ideals—some one type of woman interests them more than others do—but they are frank enough with themselves to scout the idea that their ideals can be met with on this mundane sphere.

It is equally useless for a man deliberately to refuse to go to a place which women frequent or refuse point-blank to be introduced to the sex for which he has no use. Cupid does not take him into consultation when he lays his plans, jotting the name of this man and that woman whom he purposes to pair off down upon his reference book. It's all cut and dried for him. A man may balk and run away, but he is caught and rounded up another day.

No masculine heart is so stubborn for fractions that Cupid cannot tame it into subjection in his own unique way. The one unfortunate part of it is that Cupid gives no hint or sign that might put a man on his guard or warn him to be in readiness. Men meet their future brides when they least expect and they are not always duly impressed with their future heart mate at that. One young man who had to be fairly coaxed and dragged to a ball, accompanying his chum, saw there a young woman so plain of face that he marveled why the good-looking young man dancing with her should be eager to secure her for the next waltz, the next and yet others. During the course of the evening, the young man who had fought so hard against coming was introduced by the friend he had accompanied to the very plain young woman. She looked up with a smile and that smile so radiated her whole face that her new acquaintance looked upon her in wonder. It charmed him interested him, made her almost beautiful. Her gracious personality, sweet ness and wholesomeness captured the citadel of his heart in that first moment of meeting. He could not forget her or the sound of her voice or the touch of her hand. He who had laughed at matrimony and the notion that it took a woman's love to make a man really happy and life worth living was manly enough to confess that he had erred in his judgment, when he thought the carefree life of a bachelor free lance was happier than that of the man who had placed himself in the hands of a good woman to be loved and cared for in the married state.

Cupid very often allows a man to go a great length ere he halts him. He can only run the length of his rope—finding the matrimonial noose at the end of it.

"If we live, we love."

Young Man Must Fit Himself For Life Work If He Is to Advance

By CHARLES S. BOHART

A man of twenty-six years, in seeking for a position, was asked to name the trade or profession for which he had fitted himself. He could give no satisfactory answer. He had never thought of nor fitted himself for a life work, but after leaving high school had taken the first job in sight and then floated from job to job. When asked whether he thought that method would ever get him anywhere, he indicated that he had been taught to believe that a worthy young man with a high-school education would eventually reach a creditable goal if he patiently followed a path of careful, conscientious and concentrated effort in any position—but still he had arrived nowhere and was willing to work for $15 a week.

What's the trouble? Who's to blame? What is wrong with his logic? Can anyone get far in this world without a well-laid plan and a firm will to follow it?

Who should have instructed and counseled this man at the beginning of his career?

Would classroom talks and counsel by a trained and experienced vocational instructor during certain school years help?

Should the state take the responsibility (in order to alleviate unemployment) of instructing those who graduate from our grammar and high schools regarding vocations and choice of life work?

If the man in question had wisely chosen a fitting life work and secured a position at the beginning, which might have been a stepping stone toward his thus developed life ambition, would he not have today been nearer a larger place in life?
